My Dearest Terry,
Just a few lines this blue day.
Sweet heart I am very sorry about what I did.

"SORRY" NOTE
From Fiance Who Failed to Keep Altar Date

MISS THERESA SHRUM
A Yawn Her Answer to Jilt Apology

Jilted Back Bay Girl Just Bored With It All

Nyah-sh-shah!

Romance's vagaries being what they are, 21-year-old Teresa "Terry" Shrum of Durham street, Back Bay, jilted on her planned wedding day last month, merely yawning boredly today when told her absent fiance had been located.

The lad who failed to attend the expected wedding on June 15 and left not only Teresa waiting on her front steps but most of her family as well as on a tanker due to reach Boston Sunday.

"Ho-hum-a-a-a-rump!" Terry frowned when given this bit of news. "He hum-a-a-a-rump!" Terry frowned when she revealed that she already had heard from the missing one—Robert H. Newell, 21, of Jackson, Miss.

A LETTER FROM TEXAS

She had received a letter, she said, apparently written at Corpus Christi, Texas, but bearing a postmark at Alexandria, Pa., dated June 27.

"My dearest Terry," it opened, "I am a few lines this blue day, sweetheart. I am very sorry about what I did."

The letter requested that the jilted Terry send her reply to him at general delivery, in Everett.

"Ho-hum-a-a-a-rump!" was her yawning answer when asked if she would take up with the vanishing one again—and a happy ending after all.

NOT DECIDED YET

She did finally intimate that she was waiting for him to make a personal appearance and explain his flight before she makes a decision.

"I don't know what I intend to do," she said, stifling another yawn. "It all seems so puzzling to me now. I'll have to talk with him first."

The vanishing Romeo went around the corner from her home for a phone on the June day that was to have been their wedding day.

JAPAN, SOVIET
MASS TROOPS

BULLETIN

Tokyo, July 1 (AP)—Japanese reports said tonight that five more Soviet gunboats had appeared today at Sonanfu island in the Amur river, where an alleged Soviet "incursion" has led to an armed clash between the Russian river craft and Japanese Manchouboon border artillery.

Tokyo, July 1 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito called upon high defense heads today for the facts in the Russo-Japanese crisis, after a cabinet decision that only immediate withdrawal of Soviet troops and gunboats from the disputed Amur border could effect a peaceful settlement.

In an uneasy atmosphere of official silence, indicating a ban on discussion of the trouble some that line between the Soviet Union and Japanese-occupied Manchouboon, the armies of Japan and the so-called "puppet state" were announced to be prepared for any eventually.

From both sides of the frontier were reports of mass troop movements following a naval-artillery border of violence.

Some Japanese newspapers said

HAD REFUSED TO PRODUCE RECORDS

Despite pleas of counsel, William J. Driscoll, president of the Codman Hill Construction Company, and Thomas Flanagan, company bookkeeper, were sent to Charles Street Jail today in contempt of court proceedings.

Their alleged contempt is for failure to obey a Superior Court order to produce the books of the company for inspection by the Finance Commission, which is conducting a public investigation of dealings between the company and the city.

At the Finance Commission hearing today it was revealed that city records relating to work done by the Codman Hill concern are missing from the city auditing department.

Driscoll and Flanagan were jailed at a superior court hearing by Judge Harold P. Williams, who had issued the order for production of the Codman books.

In addition to the jail sentences, each man has paid a $500 fine.

The sentence executions were played out today pending appeals taken by the men, but it is Saturday Justice Edward P. Pierce of supreme court turned down the appeals.

TERMS INDEFINITE

The jail sentences are indefinite, under Judge Williams' order, until the men produce the company books.

TO POLICE

BULLETIN

Warren, July 1 (AP)—Gus Hall, Warren-Ala district CIO union organizer, surrendered to police today on a charge of unlawful possession of explosives in connection with their strike in the steel strike.

East Chicago, Ind., July 1 (AP)—Within one hour after the Inland Steel Company reopened its plant today, clouds of smoke poured from two high stacks for the first time since May 26 when a strike closed the mill.

In was a signal in the crowd that gathered in the rain outside the grounds that the first of three 32 open hearth furnaces was lighted.

Governor M. Clifford Townsend announced last night the Inland strike, affecting 13,000 employes, had been settled.

The agreement provided for three workers return to their jobs without discrimination between strikers and non-strikers, under the last term of the settlement.

Police set forth by the Inland Steel Company in a letter to Governor Townsend June 26. It provided for the return of the strikers.

HOLDS TO POLICY

"All grievances on labor matters within the scope of the state constitution as to labor policy dated May 13, 1937 will be settled as follows."

Ann Marsters Writes of:
A TRAGIC
LITTLE BOY

By Ann Marsters

Providence, July 1—When you're six years old, life is a great adventure and you don't worry very much about anything. Even when your mother abandons you in a movie theater, you feel pretty sure things will turn out all right.

"This is Russell Kenney White. He lives in Providence, R. I., at 180 Pine street. He was 'found' had been crossed out and 'Pine' written in. I can't board him any more. I have tried to keep him, but I can't. I have no money. He was born September 11, 1936."

She tried, for six years.

EXITING AT SIX

Well, it's exciting being six years old to find that you have the center of the stage to be able to play with the tall policemen's hats and knives. It's fun to try to answer all the questions the policemen ask. And at six you don't realize when you're the central figure of a scene.

Today, "Charlie" at about a two-day automobile ride which preceded his arrival in Providence. He rode, he said, with his "second mother" and two little girls, who he called sisters.

He was brought at a farmhouse," he said, "and mother knew a woman there."

He also identified a set of New Jersey registration plates as the type his "mother" had on her car.

GIVES LOTS OF CRIES

"Charlie" is a bright boy and he is doing his best to give the police a list of clues. From what he has said, authorities believe he comes from either Rahway or Garwood, New Jersey.

He insists that he lived in "Township road" and that his mother did her shopping in Rahway. He was in the first grade of school, he said. His teacher's name was Mrs. Kaufman. He had 25 cents in the school bank. He used to play baseball with the boys in the neighborhood.

It seems that nothing unusual ever happened in his life.

White—until he was left alone in a theater lobby with a note pinned to his suit. But Charlie doesn't bear anyone any grudges for that. He doesn't realize that he's in the midst of crime and tragedy—and he doesn't realize that he's in the midst of a search for his mother.

For "Charlie" is only six years old and he trusts the police word.

He is staying, at present, at the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, while the police investigation goes on.

SUBSIDY PLAN FOR U. S. SHIPS EFFECT

Washington, July 1 (AP)—After driving some sharp bargains in effecting settlement with 23 steamship companies holding 22 of the 45 foreign mail contracts, the maritime commission today started on a new direct subsidy plan of developing the American merchant marine.

The aggregate claims made against the government by the holders of these contracts approximated $750,000, and the claims were settled at a net cost to the government of less than $750,000. Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy said:

Defining what he termed "an adequate and well-balanced merchant marine," Kennedy said the commission is authorized to execute operating-differential subsidy contracts with United States citizens operating vessels used in essential service in the foreign commerce of the United States.

The operating-differential subsidy is intended to place the American operators in a position of competitive equality with their foreign competitors, thus enabling American lines to overcome foreign advantages. This is done by paying to the American operator in each case an operating subsidy equal to the difference between the cost of operating his ships and that of his foreign competitors.

Kennedy said the commission entered into operating subsidy contracts with sixteen lines covering 22 of the old ocean mail routes. The new method became effective today.

WORKING CONDITIONS

He said the commission believes it has no more important task than to determine minimum wage scales, minimum manning scales and reasonable working conditions.

The commission made the following estimated subsidy for a six-month period, by lines:

- American Diamond Line, Inc., $27,788; American Pacific Line, Inc., $23,500; American South Atlantic Line, Inc., $22,000; Atlantic and Caribbean Steam Navigation Co., $20,000; Baltimore & Annapolis Ship Co., $23,358; Columbian Steamship Co., Inc., $10,140; Eastern Steamship Line, Inc., $68,335; Export Steamship Corporation, $40,000; Grace Line, Inc., $50,000; Lykes Bros. group, $514,490; New York and Cuba Mail Steamship Co., $22,000; Oceanic Steamship Co., $23,730; Pacific Argentine Brazil Line, Inc., $33,040; Pacific Atlantic Steamship Co., $20,000; United States Lines, Inc., $750,000. Total $4,615,750.

Anne Clark of Boston, Guest Of John at Roosevelt Home

JOHN ROOSEVELT ANNE CLARK
Attention shown Miss Anne Lindsay Clark of Boston by John Roosevelt at the Roosevelt-Pont wedding centered interest of society in the friendship of the couple, pictured here as they chatted between dances at the Hotel Somerset's first Viennese Ball, last May.

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—President and Mrs. Roosevelt today returned to their estate for a family reunion over the Fourth of July. Anne Clark, a Boston socialite, was the guest of honor at the wedding in Delaware of the President's daughter, Miss Lindsay Clark, and John Roosevelt, a former Miss Clark's suitor.

The wedding ceremony, which was held at the White House, was presided over by the President. The bride, Miss Clark, was accompanied by her father, Mr. Clark, and the groom, Mr. Roosevelt, was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Roosevelt.

The wedding party included many of the President's friends and relatives. The ceremony was a private affair, and only a few guests were invited.

After the wedding, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the White House. The bride and groom will remain in Hyde Park for several days.

U. S. SUBMARINE RUNS AGROUND

After going aground on Cape Canoe, N. S., the U. S. submarine Permit today was proceeding under her own power to the Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard, where she will be dry docked and inspected, according to officers of the Boston Navy Yard. They said they believed damage, if any, was slight.

The Permit was on a shakedown cruise, preparatory to joining the Pacific fleet. She is one of the navy's newest underway craft. Cape Canoe is the eastern tip of Nova Scotia.

Night Club Riot In Hollywood

Hollywood, July 1 (AP)—Four persons were slung, one was arrested, several shots were exchanged and scores of patrons—mostly in evening dress—hurriedly left a riot which followed a walk-out of employees at the Hawaiian Paradise Night Club last night.

The club is a favorite rendezvous of film celebrities, and several arrests were reported among the crowd that had gathered there. The riot started when several employees of the place joined parking lot attendants in beating off six men who police said were union organizers.

STUDENT FINED IN AUTO DEATH

Cleared of a manslaughter charge, Joseph P. Laverne, 19, of Park Avenue extension, Arlington, a Boston University student, was found guilty of dangerous driving today in East Cambridge court and was fined $50.

The charges grew out of the death of Francis L. McCarthy, a Boston University student, June 25, in an Arlington auto accident.

IRISH WATERS GO TO POLLS

Dublin, July 1 (AP)—Political opponents met the odds in favor of President Eamon De Valera's return to power as Ireland sailed today on a new Parliament and a constitution designed to divorce the Free State from Great Britain.

The question of the dynamic New York-born President's majority, however, was uncertain. Huge rallies addressed by De Valera and his chief opponent, former President William T. Cosgrave, last night ended the quagmire and most orderly election campaign in Irish history.

Although interest was evident on every side, the poll was expected to be tight. Voting in the proportional representation system and first results were not expected before late Friday. The final result is not likely to be known until early next week.

There are 138 seats to be filled for the new Parliament under the government-sponsored constitution, which would give the Free State the ancient name of Eire (pronounced Ayra) and make the country a republic in all but name.

Watertown Woman Victim of Boat Leap

Mrs. Mary T. Burns, 47, of Belmont street, Watertown, who disappeared from her home yesterday was identified today as the woman who plunged to her death from the Nantasket steamer Alton last night.

Works Progress Administration workers discovered her body off the Airport today. Her sister made the identification at northern mortuary.

Mrs. Burns lived with her mother, Mrs. Ellen A. Sullivan, who said her daughter had suffered a nervous breakdown. Mrs. Burns mother was taking care of her while her husband and three children lived elsewhere.

She left home with $5 or $10 in her purse, Mrs. Sullivan said.

The woman who leaped from the boat into the harbor boarded the Alton at Boston's North End. She strode the deck nervously and suddenly jumped the rail and plunged into the water as the boat was passing the South and East Boston bridges.

Captain Kenneth Smith stopped the Alton and had a lifeboat lowered for a search, but the passenger boat disappeared completely.

Only Sure Thing In Russia: Death

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
If a Russian train is late they shoot the engineer. If it's on time they shoot the passengers.

It wouldn't be so bad if you had your choice of railroads. If they were looking for you on the Trans-Siberian you could make it on the New York Central. But over there they've only got one road.

Which means that nothing of the Russian government or the people, for the people and by the people shall perish from the earth, except the people.

Franklin, Ethel Honeymoon in Secret

Newlywed Couple Slip Out of Sight Through Aid of G-Men

MRS. F. D. ROOSEVELT, JR.
Honeymooning Today

New York, July 1.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his bride were reported today on their way to Maine. It was believed their destination was Bar Harbor, where the bride's mother recently rented a house while saying she did not intend to occupy it herself. Another possibility was Canaan Island, where President Roosevelt owns an estate and spends part of his summers.

Montreal, July 1 (INS).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his bride have made reservations on the liner Empress of Britain, sailing for Liverpool from Quebec on July 10, it was learned today.

Wilmington, Del., July 1 (AP).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel duPont were man and wife today, honeymooning in secrecy after a rich but simple wedding climaxing a romance which had captivated the nation.

With the eyes of the country upon them as they were joined in the most publicized American wedding of the year, the blonde, blue-eyed bride and her tall, athletic, 35-year-old groom slipped out of sight with the expert aid of the United States Secret Service.

Both President Roosevelt, father of the groom, and Mrs. Roosevelt conspired with a few members of the families and intimate friends to keep the honeymoon plans secret. Mrs. Roosevelt, who has made many intimate family revelations in the past, made it plain that this time she was "not going to tell."

There were reliable reports that on July 10 the young newlyweds would go abroad on the liner Empress of Britain, but their whereabouts meanwhile was kept from the public.

TOASTS MOTHER
The couple bade farewell to their families and 1500 friends at a reception held at Owl's Nest, home of the bride's father, Eugene duPont, last night after the wedding. Secret service men, such as guard the President, aided the milling couple as they slipped out into a rainy night.

The wedding rites were completed at 2:14 p. m. (EST) yesterday in Christ Protestant Episcopal Church.

The 22-year-old husband and his bride, a year his junior, sought to force their parents from the operator roles which both the Roosevelts and the duPonts had played all day. At the reception Ethel whispered to the President. An instant later, he was the center of a flock of bridesmaids, all waiting a kiss.

Franklin repeated his father's toast to the bride then proposed another: "To mother."

SISTER GETS BOUQUET
The first lady smiled at him from her place in the reception line next to Mrs. Eugene duPont, the bride's mother.

Gay camaraderie characterized duPont's greeting to the President on the latter's visit to his home.

"Welcome to Owl's Nest," duPont said, bowing.

"Thank you sir," said the President, "and I'm coming back another time."

"The next time," rejoined his

Their faces lighted by happy smiles, the newly married Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his bride, the former Ethel duPont, posed in the rain for the photo shown above. More than 350 society and political notables witnessed the affair.

host, "bring some white flannels," such a good time he did not want almost two hours longer than he. The President, apparently having to leave, stayed at the reception had planned. That was after a two-hour dinner prolonged by innumerable toasts.

Before he and Mrs. Roosevelt boarded their special train for Hyde Park, N. Y., the President watched the bride and groom gaily bid their guests goodbye from a second story entrance hall gallery and stood with the bride's parents when Ethel tossed her bouquet to the eager girls below. Above, her brunette sister and maid of honor, caught it.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. duPont gaily returned the kisses thrown to them by their newlywed son and daughter.

The Rev. Endicott Peabody, officiating minister, 32 years ago conducted the same ceremony for Franklin's father when he married Eleanor Roosevelt in New York.

The group of more than 300 prominent persons assembled in the candle lit interior of the duPont family church at Christiana Hundred appeared oblivious to the gathering storm.

It was a hushed and watchful group. The aged minister was praying that the couple "may ever remain in perfect love and peace together" that their home may be "a haven of blessing and grace."

Then he joined their right hands. Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder. I pronounce that they are man and wife.

At the stalwart youth and the slender girl in her cloud of tulle stood on a white satin pillow, the Rev. Mr. Peabody added his blessing. He completed the ceremony which was begun by the Rev. Frederick Ashton, pastor of the duPont church.

There was a stir in the audience as Dr. Charles Courbion, the organist, began Mendelssohn's "Reverential."

PRESIDENT IN BACKGROUND
As Ethel turned slowly to face the wedding guests for the first time, her eyes were bright. Her blonde hair shone through the orange-blossom design of her Juliet cap which held a four-tiered flowing white tulle veil, 12 feet long.

The shirred bodice of her white tulle gown was caught into a V neckline by two orange blossoms. These also circled her slim waist above the bouffant skirt. She carried an antique ivory prayerbook with her bouquet of dove orchids. She looked up at Franklin a head taller than she, as they walked down the aisle. He whispered something, she whispered back. They both laughed.

The eyes of the groom's family on the right side of the church and the bride's family on the left followed every step. At the door they stopped. In happy humor, they posed for pictures, stepped in a limousine and drove away.

The bridesmaids and ushers led by Aimie duPont and tall, blond John Roosevelt, Franklin's younger brother and best man, followed the couple. Mrs. John Bottigier, the groom's only sister and maid of honor, walked alone.

The President, who had declined to be near the head of the procession, left as he had entered the church in the arms of his son, Elliott. James, the eldest son, escorted Mrs. Roosevelt, who wore a long figured white chiffon dress, trimmed at the hem in bright bands of varicolored veils, repeated on her white hat.

This is the interior of Christ Church at Christiana Hundred, Del., where Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., exchanged nuptial vows with Ethel duPont. Down the aisle stretched the white satin carpeting that carried out the scheme of a "white wedding. On the white satin cushion at the flower-banked altar the bridal couple knelt for the blessing. The Roosevelt clan sat on the right, the duPonts on the left.

The manner outlined in that statement. If any such settlement so arrived at is unsatisfactory, the company will refer the matter to the commissioner of labor of the state of Indiana and will accept his decision as final.

The company's statement of labor policy included recognition of the steel workers' organizing committee as collective bargaining agent, "chosen by those of its employees who are members of the International Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers," and said that the company "will not interfere with the right of its employees to join that association."

Indiana statement said the company would insist there be no intimidation or coercion of employees to join any organization, would recognize and abide by the principles of collective bargaining relating to wages, hours and working conditions as provided by law.

48-HOUR WEEK
The basic eight-hour day, 48-hour week, with payment of time and one-half for overtime, paid vacations for employees of five years' continuous service, and seniority rights were other provisions of the declaration of policy.

Who emerged the victor in the sudden turn of events remained uncertain.

There was no break in the strike as it affects the three other "little steel corporations"—Bethlehem, Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. President Frank Purnell of the latter company, which has plants in the steel making area, stated early today:

"We will sign no agreement with CIO."

Neither, for that matter, did Inland Steel.

INLAND SETTLEMENT
The Inland settlement was on the basis of agreement between the steel company and the governor, and the union and the governor.

Governor Townsend, after long conferences that lasted well past midnight, said that Youngstown Sheet & Tube had declined to accept similar terms.

Sheet & Tube, the Governor added, asked him to renounce the National Guard as protection for its workers here. He refused to do so, whereupon the company, cancelled its plans to reopen.

"We won the strike," said Nicholas Fetterbach, CIO secretary in the Calumet (Indiana-Elliott) steel section. "It is the best settlement yet made with any steel company."

On the other hand, the basis of settlement was Inland Steel's own "labor policy" as enunciated by the company in an open letter to its men last May 28—two days after the strike was called.

The events at the Indiana state capital last night apparently removed Inland Steel as a strike factor, but the plant here of Youngstown Sheet & Tube, with its 4,000 employees, and the Republic's mills in this same Calumet area remain strike-ridden.

The strike still grips Ohio's Maumee valley, with its smokestacked mills at Youngstown, Warren and Niles, at Canton, Massillon and Cleveland, and in Johnstown, Pa., where the dynamiting of Bethlehem Steel Corporation pipelines earlier this week forced a temporary shutdown after the mills had reopened.

Canton strike leaders are still debating the advisability of calling a general strike there in protest against the reopening of steel mills yesterday. Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube report some back-to-work movement in the Mahoning Valley as the firing of production virtually up to its pre-strike level.

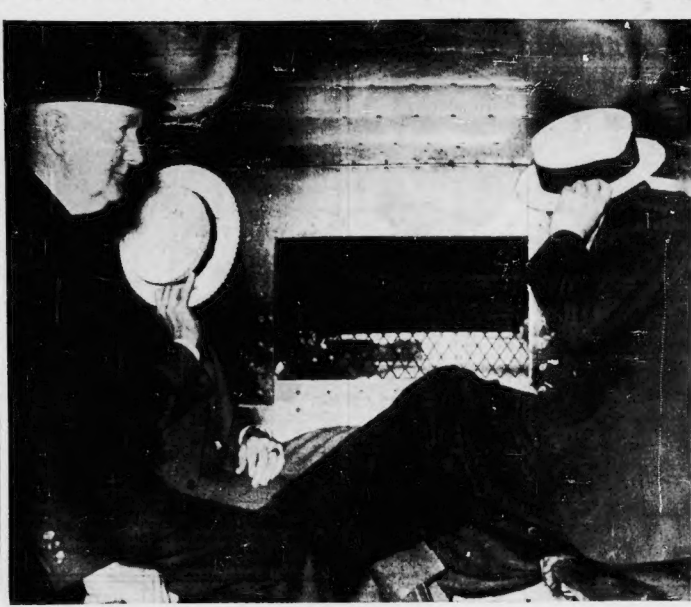

Gov. Hall, the Warren CIO organizer who has been named in previous charges as "master mind" of a dynamite terrorism campaign, threatened the police he would surrender, but that the charges were "an unadmitted frameup."

Three strikers who are said to have made confessions naming Hall as the dynamite plotter, are being held under heavy bond.

LEWIS BLASTED

John L. Lewis, the leader and "strong man" of CIO who only yesterday was sharply attacked by Rep. Calkins, Georgia Democrat, in

WILLIAM J. DRISCOLL

They had been charged with a contempt of court citation issued in consequence of their alleged refusal to produce books of their firm for inspection by the Boston Finance Commission. The man with his face uncovered in the picture is a court officer.

Washington, July 1 (INS)—About 10,000 members of the United Mine Workers of America, which he also heads, are still on strike, having been called out in sympathy with the steel strikers. They are the workers in the mines owned by the four steel companies.

Speaking in the House yesterday, Representative Calkins said:

"I warn John L. Lewis and his Communist cohorts that no second 'verbal expedition' into the Southland, under the Red banner of Russia and concealed under the slogans of the CIO, will be tolerated."

COMPANY SCORED

Ohio Representative Bigney, also a Democrat, took another view, scoring the steel company's "dictatorial attitude."

The Inland Steel settlement was along lines said to have been proposed in Cleveland last week by President Roosevelt's three-man mediation board.

When the board's chairman, Charles P. Taft, 28, suggested that separate agreements be made with Governor Martin Davey of Ohio by strikers and steel companies, the company's spokesmen as unaccepting.

His order came after the union had begun organizing a huge picket line. As soon as it was learned that Youngstown Sheet & Tube was not to be a party to the settlement, instructions went out for the pickets to intensify their patrol at that company's plant.

The strike leaders were jubilant " sooner or later Republic will have to give in," said Nicholas Fetterbach after five proclaiming "we've won the strike."

FACTS WITH GOVERNOR

The agreements made with Governor Townsend were agreed by William J. Driscoll, assistant to the president of Inland, and by Van Bittner for SWOC.

The agreement said that they did not consider the agreement involved any pact between Inland and CIO. It was separate pacts with the Governor.

Further, as meeting the union's only demand—the demand on which the strike is based—All four companies have remained firm. The demand was for a signed bargaining contract. Today's reopening of the Inland plant, steel men pointed out, was accomplished without such a signed contract.

Charges were made by a CIO strike leader at Canton, O., last night that a picket Cronaba Lopez had been "clashed to death" by a National Guardsman.

A coroner's report, however, and a formal statement by the National Guard commander, Brigadier-General Martin, stated that Lopez's death was due to heart failure "and was not caused in any way, physical or otherwise, by any contact with any of the National Guard troops in this command."

6 CIO WORKERS FREED IN ME.

Portland, Me., July 1 (INS)—Powers Haggard, CIO secretary for New England, and five CIO organizers, jailed for contempt of court as a result of the recent strike in 12 Auburn and Lewiston shoe factories, were freed on bail today by Supreme Court Judge Sidney S. Fox, Felix Thorpe, who signed a writ of habeas corpus.

The men, who were in Androscoggin county jail, were given their freedom on bail and ordered to appear before Judge Thaxter here within seven days for a hearing.

Judge Thaxter notified Raymond Robbins of Waterville, CIO attorney, a hearing would be held Saturday if it was convenient for the six to appear.

Bay State Labor Dispute Appealed

The National Labor Relations Board moved against the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation from River Plant in an appeal before the United States Supreme Court today.

The board asked the court to review the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, Boston, upholding the granting of an injunction to the company restraining the board from hearing charges brought by employees.

The injunction was granted by the Massachusetts Federal District Court after the board charged the company "interfered with and dominated the formation and administration of a labor organization known as the 'Plan of Representation of Employees in the Free River plant.'"

GOVERNOR ACTS IN WOOL JAM, BOARD NAMED

At the suggestion of Governor Hurley, representatives of the Boston Wool Association today appointed a committee with delegated authority to settle "a two-week-old wool handlers' strike."

Union officials and representatives of the employers met today in the council chamber at the State House at the request of the governor.

While the governor suggested a committee of five, one of eight was named to meet with officials of the International Longshoremen's Association, to attempt to settle the wool handlers' union demand for a "closed shop."

Before the employers' representatives agreed to appoint a committee with power to settle the strike, affecting 25 warehouses, statements by union officials and counsel for the employers indicated that a peaceful settlement would be unlikely.

Said Daniel J. Donovan, vice-president of the International Longshoremen's Association, to Governor Hurley:

"Unless the local association agrees to adopt a 'closed shop' we will sit up everything."

Maxwell Donald, counsel for the wool merchants, in reply, declared:

AGREEMENT DUBIOUS
"It is very doubtful whether the employers will agree. They don't think that employers should be compelled to join a union."

Donald asserted that Boston may lose the "wool port" if the strike is continued. He said the wool could be moved out of Boston on trucks to the various New England manufacturing cities.

May 30 Riot Blamed on 'Red Army' Chicago Officer Tells of Battle

Washington, July 1 (AP)—Ewing's club and broken bottles, shouting abuse, a "Red Army" started the steel strike riot in Chicago on Memorial Day.

That was the story of Chicago Police Sergeant Lawrence Lyons before the Senate civil liberties committee today. He backed up fellow officers, who earlier said they had to defend themselves against strikers and sympathizers or themselves he killed.

Two strikers died in the bloody fracas, some with broken heads, some from gunshot wounds.

DEFENDS POLICE
Lyons brushed aside insinuations by the committee chairman, Senator LaFollette (D., Wisconsin), that sawdoff, sharp-edged clubs seen in the hands of some police were not police department issue, or were supplied by the steel company.

He said the Chicago police department was on trial here before the people and that he was here to defend it. He told his story vividly, in an excited, high-pitched voice.

"They came at us swinging their clubs and shouting they were going to take over the plant," he said.

"They called us yellow cops and dirty scoundrels. Then they spit in our faces and called us names I never heard in the Navy."

ALL IN MORN ARMED
"Every one of them in my sight was armed with clubs and broken bottles. The police department is sorry anyone had to be killed, but we couldn't help it."

Lyons said he had charge of 300 patrolmen on the field when the riot occurred. He said the marchers approached police right abreast, when they got in strike distance, four or five hundred of them broke from the line and headed for the railroad tracks, where they could get into the plant.

MASS MEETING CALLED IN PA. BY CIO HEADS

Johnstown, Pa., July 1 (AP)—A fourth of July mass meeting, called by CIO leaders, sent new tremors of fear through the city today, and brought renewed talk of a return of martial law.

"We want to show the nation whether we can or cannot get 4,000 men in Johnstown," said James Mark, the elderly union organizer whom Mayor Shulze has told to leave town "for your own protection."

Philip Murray, first lieutenant of John L. Lewis in the CIO steel strike, and P. T. Pagan, a United Mine Workers official, will be speakers at the July 4 rally.

MARTIAL LAW REFUSED
The union men have asked Governor Earle to restore martial law to the city in which Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works are located, but Sheriff Boyle does not believe such action is necessary.

The sheriff conferred at length last night with Mark and other union leaders, and said when he emerged from the meeting:

"I see no occasion at this time to request Governor Earle to intervene by declaration of martial law. In fact, I did not request martial law some 10 days ago, although it was promulgated."

"Today the picket line amounted to eight pickets along a stretch of almost eight miles, no informant tells me, the vigilantes appear to have been dispersed and we have 125 inspectors and highway patrolmen available."

TRY TO HALT TRAFFIC
Brotherhoods of trainmen, firemen and engineers turned to an attempt to shut off traffic to and from Bethlehem's Cambria works, where 15,000 normally work.

Interference of operations in these mills, with their $300,000 weekly payroll, is major point of contention among businessmen in the "red hot" Johnstown community of 150,000 persons.

FAMILY TRUSTS UNDER FIRE IN TAX QUIZ

Washington, July 1 (INS) — Many wealthy persons have been splitting their income among members of their families in order to avoid heavy tax payments. Internal revenue officials told the congressional tax committee today.

One thrifty individual said Paul Burton, treasury attorney, formed 41 trusts for the benefit of members of his family and claimed to have saved thereby $450,000 in one year.

The practice, it was said, has grown since high federal income and death duties have caused many people to take unusual steps to save estates for their children.

Previous to Burton's testimony, Representative Treadway (R., Mass.) demanded that Treasury officials make public their reasons for failing to do something about the returns of tax policy holders in a Bahamas insurance company, when the Treasury admits that it disallowed their deductions on income tax returns every year.

Treadway was promoted the reason would be supplied.

Burton told the committee the Supreme Court has sustained the government in important cases, but that trust provisions of the law should be strengthened.

"Many persons of wealth are creating trusts in such numbers and in such form as to constitute a serious challenge to the effective administration of the income tax law," he said.

Burton described several types of family trusts, one being the creation of trusts by parents for their minor children, the income of each trust being taxed separately.

Franc Falls But Gaiety Rises

Tourists Rush to Spend Sudden Wealth

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Paris, July 1 (INS) — The care-free days which preceded President Roosevelt's establishment of the "30-cent dollar" were recalled in Paris today as American tourists thronged the city.

With francs selling at 200 to the dollar at close of trading, visitors here for the exposition and other attractions took full advantage of the cheapened currency and staged a joyous rush on shops, restaurants and night clubs.

"It's like finding money in the street," said Mrs. Wilkinson, a member of the troupe of "Black-ettes," who came here to demonstrate the latest in American terminology.

"We are all going on a shopping spree."

Proportions of cafes in Montmartre and Montparnasse prepared for a night of celebration. British and American visitors, armed with the pounds and dollars which brought in value with every slump in the franc, made reservations hours ahead for the purpose of spending while the spending is good.

AGENCIES CROWDED

Tourist agencies and exchange bureaus were crowded throughout the day.

Trucks crowded through the streets, bearing extra loads of champagne ordered by restaurants. Additional helpers were put on at the exposition grounds.

4 NEARING CHAIR EAT AND HOPE

On Monday, N. Y., July 1 (AP) — Four men, their appetites unimpaired by their scheduled execution in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair tonight for a Brooklyn murder, ate heartily today and hopefully waited for executive clemency from Governor Lehman.

They were "Tough Tony" Garlano, 34, leader of the quartet; a cafe "olimp" November 8, 1936, during which Isaac Shain, 35, was shot to death, and three accomplices—Raymond Norton, 20, Watson Edwards, 25, and Harry Eisenberg, 42.

Most hopeful of a last-minute reprieve was Norton, a first offender. Wallace "Wags" are fighting to win him clemency on the ground that he is a "child of his environment."

Garlano, least hopeful, took no himself the blame for slaying Shain, a customer in the cafe.

Coin Meter Balks Suicide Attempt

Leominster, July 1 (Encouraged and "worn-out," Mrs. Anna Leeger, 50-year-old grandmother and factory worker, tried to end her life today, but the poverty that prompted her act saved her life, police said.

In her home in Central street, where she lives alone, Mrs. Leeger closed all doors and windows, then turned on the jets of her kitchen gas stove, officers reported. Neighbors smelled the gas and called police.

Patrolmen Leo J. Konikow and Raymond J. Matthews had to batter in a kitchen door. They found the woman unconscious, but living. The gas from her coin meter had not yet before there was enough to kill her.

IRWIN LOSES SMIRK; OMITS INSANITY PLEA

New York, July 1 (AP)—An early formal plea of "not guilty," omitting any mention of insanity, had been entered for Robert Irwin today when he was arraigned on three first degree murder indictments.

It was generally expected the answer of the 25-year-old confessed Easter Sunday slayer would be "not guilty because of insanity." Samuel Leibowitz, Irwin's attorney who entered the plea in general session court refused to comment on the unusual move.

Criminal court experts regarded the guess that Leibowitz might try to save his client from the electric chair by contending that Irwin's confessions have no trial value because they were dictated by a man as crazy as a hog, as a law never characterized him.

It was said on high authority that the police have no fingerprints connecting Irwin with the murders.

The youth in his confession, however, said he had left "my finger prints all over the place."

SMIRK DISAPPEARS
The formal plea was recorded while a listening Robert Irwin watched silently, the dark shadow of awakening dread chasing the smile from his face.

Leibowitz promised the court he would be ready to have a date for trial set on July 15. Neither side asked for an order to permit psychiatric examination to determine his sanity.

Once outside homicide court, Irwin was escorted to a hotel.

WAS ESCORTED TO A HOTEL

Irwin was escorted to a hotel after his arraignment. He was taken to a hotel in New York City.

Headquarters fingerprinted Irwin and the machinery of the law whirled him to general sessions for formal arraignment before Judge William Allen.

While waiting for Irwin to be brought into court, Defense Attorney Samuel Leibowitz said:

"I think this is the most interesting case I have ever had, due to its social implications. You can never tell how many more fellows like Irwin are running around here."

"I hope that society, learning a lesson from the Irwin case, will make a more logical and sane approach to the problem of dealing with the criminal insane."

Had to Slay to Become Spiritual, Irwin Says in His Own Life Story

Employed People To Help Him to "Visualize"

In this final chapter, Robert Irwin concludes his signed confession in connection with the murders of beautiful Ronnie Gordon, her mother and their brother in New York last Easter Sunday. He declares he is not afraid to die.

By ROBERT IRWIN
(Copyright 1937, Universal News, Inc. Reprinted by permission of the author.)

CHAPTER FIVE
New York, July 1.—Death has no terror for me. I have said that before, but I wish to emphasize it again because it has a bearing on everything I have done. What I mean is that while I have taken the lives of others, I do not shrink from accepting the same fate for myself. Because to me death is not the end of the road, but it merely can stay along the road.

What I have been trying so hard to describe, and what I fear, I have been unable to put into the right words in the great problem of my life—that problem of transition from the material to the spiritual plane.

It is for this that I have devoted myself to this "visualization," as I have called it for want of a better name. To me it means everything—the answer to the great problems of the universe, and the compelling tuning in of the human mind, so to speak, with the divine intellect.

"WONDERFUL MOTHER"
It was really this that led me to my determination to murder—like—the one human being I really love. But I'll come back to that later. To fully make myself clear, I must go back to my mother and my early life.

I have said that my father was an evangelist, and my mother, who was a deeply religious woman, married him for that reason, I believe.

She raised me in a very religious atmosphere. But it was such a primitive religion that I rebelled against it—it made me sick.

I loved my mother, and I know that she did everything in the world she could for me. But her idea was to save me and send me to heaven. However, I knew that my mother had something that I didn't have, and there was something wonderful about it.

The whole purpose and aim in my life has been to find that vital something of my mother's single faith, with logic and common sense.

And I came to the conclusion that all religions are fundamentally alike—the only difference is vocabulary. If my mother had been born an Eskimo, she probably would have thought of God as somebody with a lot of whale blubber—what I meant.

But, fundamentally, the religions of any people point to the same thing—the mission of our minds to the Divine Mind. The essence of religion, that is, is the elimination of personal desire.

And the identification of the finite soul with the infinite.

The plane on which the finite life moves is the material plane, and the whole progress of evolution is toward the spiritual or mental plane.

So, in 1925, when I was 17, I came to the conclusion that before anything can come into material being, it first must have mental prototype. You see, before a sculptor can make a statue, he must first make a mental statue.

Before I can model anything in clay, or carve it from stone, I must have in mind a perfect mental image of that statue. Only then can I give it a material being, so I get it into my head that the difficulty of it all is, well, to visualize.

I would take a picture and I would try to visualize that so that I could project an image in my mind. I have made definite progress in that direction.

Nicholas Tesla, the famous inventor, had the same experience that I had. He believed in visualization, but in an altogether different way. When he was a small boy in Austria he was pursued by imaginary monsters, and those things were so real to him that he could visualize them.

He lived in terror, and in order to get away from them he used to think of something pleasant, and as a result of it he got so he could visualize. He attributes his whole success to his power to visualize.

The only thing is that he was driven into it by imaginary monsters, and I figure it out and about it a deliberate way—to develop that power.

MUST KILL SOMEONE
While I was with Ethel in 1934 I met a Hungarian fellow. He made a machine, but I found out it didn't work, after I spent every cent I could make. He tried to help me with my visualizing.

All the time, I knew there was one way out—by murdering somebody. I was in to do something that I would put myself on a spiritual plane and make everything even. I would have to work for that borrowed life.

That was why, on that afternoon when I went down to the pier intending to kill myself, that I suddenly changed my mind and decided to murder Ethel. I went to the Gleason apartment to murder her.

That I didn't see her and kill her was an accident. That I killed those other three was an accident. But I did it, and here I am, making facing a reelectric chair. But I am not afraid to die.

THE END

Intended Victim in Pervasive Pose

All the time, I knew there was one way out—by murdering somebody. I was in to do something that I would put myself on a spiritual plane and make everything even. I would have to work for that borrowed life.

That was why, on that afternoon when I went down to the pier intending to kill myself, that I suddenly changed my mind and decided to murder Ethel. I went to the Gleason apartment to murder her.

That I didn't see her and kill her was an accident. That I killed those other three was an accident. But I did it, and here I am, making facing a reelectric chair. But I am not afraid to die.

The plane on which the finite life moves is the material plane, and the whole progress of evolution is toward the spiritual or mental plane.

So, in 1925, when I was 17, I came to the conclusion that before anything can come into material being, it first must have mental prototype. You see, before a sculptor can make a statue, he must first make a mental statue.

Before I can model anything in clay, or carve it from stone, I must have in mind a perfect mental image of that statue. Only then can I give it a material being, so I get it into my head that the difficulty of it all is, well, to visualize.

I would take a picture and I would try to visualize that so that I could project an image in my mind. I have made definite progress in that direction.

Nicholas Tesla, the famous inventor, had the same experience that I had. He believed in visualization, but in an altogether different way. When he was a small boy in Austria he was pursued by imaginary monsters, and those things were so real to him that he could visualize them.

He lived in terror, and in order to get away from them he used to think of something pleasant, and as a result of it he got so he could visualize. He attributes his whole success to his power to visualize.

The only thing is that he was driven into it by imaginary monsters, and I figure it out and about it a deliberate way—to develop that power.

G-MEN HUNT IN R. I. FOR KIDNAPED HEIRESS

Weekly R. I. July 1—Department of Justice agents searched their search for the kidnapped Miss Alice McDermott Parsons, Long Island heiress, near here today. It was learned exclusively by the Boston Evening American.

A mysterious phone call from New London, Conn., to the Parsons mansion, Stony Brook, sent G-men racing to this city by automobile. The phone call was intercepted by Department of Justice agents.

A woman's voice came over the wire, saying:

"I am Mrs. Parsons. Call off the hunt. I am all right now. I'll be home soon."

Tracing the call, G-men learned it came from a drug store in New London. Arriving there, they questioned a clerk in the store also a customer who remembered seeing a woman, answering the kidnapped heiress description, leave the store, enter an automobile and drive off in the direction of the city.

Agents reinforced by state troopers, converged on Westbury, and went into hasty conference with Chief of Police Robert A. Kessel.

The phoned message, "I've been held by police officials and shared by the missing woman, who there is something 'fishy' about the kidnapping."

Repeated efforts of William H. Parsons, disreputable husband of the missing woman, to contact the heiress, failed to produce any results, were unsuccessful.

Says Ford Scale Keeps All Pay Up

Detroit, July 1 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company said today in the July issue of its magazine that "Ford's high wage is the one and only thing that keeps wages up all over the country."

The statement appeared in the magazine's editorial article, which contended "the Fordsters and 'wage leaders' are working together toward a standardization of pay scales approved by Henry Ford."

Henry Ford, Editor, Dies in Brockton

Brockton, July 1.—Funeral arrangements were prepared today for Herbert L. Wood, 68, veteran New England newspaper man who died in his home last night after a lingering illness.

Wood, who was county editor of the Brockton Enterprise Times, worked for several years on Boston papers.

JAPAN, SOVIET MASS TROOPS IN CRISIS

The Soviets had mobilized 60,000 men in 12 divisions of their vast Far Eastern Red army, supported by planes, armored cars and tanks, and capable of sustaining themselves for a year, even if cut off from Moscow.

The Mukden, after the cabinet meeting, called Navy Minister Admiral Tono to his palace to hear the newest developments. These developments, presumably, were contained in secret army and navy dispatches.

(In Moscow, the Japanese ambassador warned the Soviet government to evacuate its armed forces from the vicinity of Manchukuo-claimed Amur River islands, which really are islands that vanish at flood tide.)

Japanese newspapers charged the long conflict over the frontier had been brought to a head by the Soviet army launching an attack against Manchukuo, which Japan is bound to protect by treaty.

ARMY OUT OF CONTROL

The Far Eastern Red army, commanded by Marshal V. K. Blucher, the press charged, has got out of control of the high command in Moscow.

Japanese army spokesmen, describing yesterday's naval battle south of Semushu Island, declared that 400 Russian submarines had "invaded" the channel of the Amur and opened fire on Japanese and Manchukuoan soldiers who were bathing.

The army dispatches declared their artillery immediately opened fire on the Russian fleet, and that it decisively. One gunboat was said to be sunk on the Manchukuoan side of the river, and the battered bulk of another was beached up the river.

FEVERISH ACTIVITY

Latest dispatches reaching here from the northern Manchukuoan border said an infantry and army was feverishly concentrating all available land, naval, and air forces at Boyarko, south of Biagovichi.

A report to the newspaper Nich-Nichi declared the Red mobilized ten infantry divisions and three cavalry divisions, a total of 60,000 men. This estimate was less than some from other sources.

In support, the dispatch said, were 100 fighting planes, 600 armored cars and 1000 tanks.

Opposed to these on the opposite side of the international boundary formed by the Amur were large concentrations of the Japanese army maintained in Manchukuo and the advance units of the entire Manchukuoan forces.

Moscow Long Prepared For War in Far East

Moscow, July 1 (AP)—The Japanese ambassador to Russia ended a night conference at the foreign office early today with a strong warning to the Soviet government to evacuate all troops from the disputed Amur River islands immediately.

DIPLOMACY REJECTED

The Russian representative lodged a sharp counter-protest with Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu, and charged Japan was responsible for the outbreak of hostilities along the Manchukuoan boundary.

Before the midnight interview with Shigemitsu, foreign office attaché, he indicated Japan does not consider the dispute over the sovereignty of the Amur islands subject to diplomatic discussion.

PLANES, SUBMARINES

He declared Japan intends to protect fully Manchukuo's claim to the territory, which the Soviet claims under two treaties signed with China in 1904 and 1906.

Soviet sources declared that it was "absolutely certain" it would find 60,000 troops of the Far Eastern Red army prepared for action. The Siberian troops are reported provided, supplied and equipped for fight as an independent unit without aid from Russia proper for at least a year.

The Soviet, considering war with Japan a possibility, has for years poured much of its industrial and agricultural resources into the great army unit, which is commanded by Marshal V. K. Blucher, with headquarters at Khabarovsk.

Supporting this army are an estimated 1,000 to 1,500 airplanes and a submarine base at Vladivostok where about 60 small submarines are understood to be stationed.

The Soviet claims to have built a series of underground forts along the danger zone. Into these provisions and munitions have been ransacked for many years so that in case of trouble, Marshal Blucher could operate independent of his supply base, thousands of miles away.

Police Promotions Still Moot

Police Commissioner Joseph J. Timilty, denying reports today that the coming police promotions were to be made immediately, stated that they would not be made until late this month or on August 1.

Confirming a story published in the Boston Evening American, the police head said he was waiting until the old West End station on Joy street is ready for use again. New cabs are being installed and other work being done, and these jobs cannot be completed for several weeks.

NEXT WAR AREA?

At the mouth of the Amur river (indicated by arrow) occurred the Japanese-Soviet clash which may precipitate a great, Far Eastern war, international observers fear. The map shows how the river separates Soviet Siberia and Japan's puppet state of Manchukuo. The Japanese have sunk one Soviet gunboat and have warned Moscow to evacuate disputed territory.

CIVIC LEADERS ATTEND RITES FOR McDONALD

National and State Labor leaders together with State and city dignitaries today attended the funeral services for Daniel J. McDonald, 46 years, assistant secretary of the Boston Allied Printing Trades Council and a former president of the Boston City Council, in St. Mary's Church, Warren street, Charlestown.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant commissioner of labor, and prominent in labor circles, in Charlestown, New York, Philadelphia and the West, were present.

Mayor Frederick W. McAuliffe, Fire Commissioner Edward J. Tague, were among others present.

Secretary Daniel F. Farrell, accompanied by Captain William Harrison, military aide, represented a delegation of 50 men prominent in labor circles acted as honor bearers.

The solemn high mass of requiem at 10 o'clock was sung by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Theodore J. Altshuler, with the Rev. Francis A. McLaughlin as deacon and the Rev. James J. Hamilton as sub-deacon. The Rev. Michael J. Hinchey, of the Church of the Most Precious Blood, Hyde Park, was seated in the sanctuary during the mass.

Solos were rendered during the mass by Mrs. Frank White, soprano, and Mrs. Frank Hynes, alto.

The bearers were Joseph A. Darr, John J. Connolly, Martin J. Carey, Thomas Hadden of New York, representing the International Printing Pressmen's Union; William F. Ryan, William Harris, Thomas Manning and Anthony J. DeAndrea.

The interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, where funeral services were read at the grave by the Rev. John G. Hogan.

Mr. McDonald, who was in his 46th year, died late Monday afternoon after a few weeks' sickness.

U. S. DRUGGISTS WILL HONOR W. R. HEARST

William Randolph Hearst, publisher, and Professor Albert Einstein, Nobel prize winner, will be honored by druggists and pharmacists throughout the United States and Canada, for "humanitarian services" at the convention of the International Elks Psi Phi Pharmaceutical Fraternity, here, July 28, 29 and 30.

The announcement was made today by Maurice Goldsmith, chairman of the 1937 service awards committee, who revealed both Mr. Hearst and Professor Einstein have accepted the awards, unanimously voted there, the distinguished service in behalf of American pharmacy and chemistry.

Mr. Hearst, publisher of the American Druggist, was cited for instituting "Your Good Health" radio program.

Mr. Hearst is accepting honorary membership in the fraternity, which has a membership of more than 500 druggists and pharmacy students throughout the United States and Canada, wrote.

"I greatly appreciate the distinction which you confer upon me and your proposed award to be conferred at the time of your international convention in Boston, July 28, 29 and 30. Please allow me to express my sincere thanks for your kind attitude and complimentary expressions."

Youth Blames Love in Burglary

His love for a girl prompted him to break into a house, a 23-year-old Jamaica Plain youth confessed today according to police.

He was arrested last night on charges of breaking and entering and larceny. Taken to headquarters to be fingerprinted, the youth is alleged to have told police:

"I'm in love with a girl and I wanted money to take her out."

Responding to a call from a resident of Wyman street, Jamaica Plain, that she heard noises in a neighboring, unoccupied house, Patrolman Lewis Miller and Joseph Hanley found the youth.

The officers said he had filled eight burlap bags with lead pipe, brass and copper fixtures valued at $300. Evidence was gained by forcing a collar door, police said.

DUCE EDICT THREAT TO EUROPEAN PEACE

By DAVID F. SENTNER

(Copyright, 1937, by International News Service)

London, July 1.—The whole international Spanish non-intervention scheme reeled near the brink of oblivion today following a new Premier Mussolini.

The blow was an article in the newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, signed, but attributed to Il Duce, asserting Italy's refusal to recall her "volunteer" troops from Spain.

Nevertheless, Britain and France began hasty attempts to save what can be salvaged of the 27-nation effort to keep the Spanish conflict within Spain's borders.

British authorities feared the strict neutrality effort may blow up as a result of the Il Duce's statement, which said the Italian government could not exempt its volunteers "from their imperative moral obligations" on behalf of the Spanish Republic.

Italy and Germany could be prevented from forcing immediate abandonment of non-intervention and Britain could be saved from being compelled to grant belated aid to the Spanish Republic.

half of the Spanish Republic.

The British government considers it most unlikely that Italy or Germany will agree to any form of Franco-British naval control in the zone formerly patrolled by German and Italian ships.

There is a possibility that Il Duce and Chamberlain Hitler may propose an alternative scheme at tomorrow's non-intervention committee meeting, with a view to stalling possibly drastic action by Britain and France.

Britain plans tomorrow to propose that the control question be referred to the full 27-nation committee. Tomorrow's meeting will embrace only the chairman's communication.

AMERICA'S NO. 1 Heartbreaker

Another Hit for LOEW'S Greatest Summer Season!

We know just summer that neither heat nor rain could spoil the joyous fun when the crowd gathers to see the play that's like a "heartbreaker" in the summer's life. So this summer we have prepared for you the greatest attraction in the greatest of the big "Captains Courageous"...

Watch Captains Courageous for other smash hits to follow.

FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW... He's no Clark Gable or Robert Taylor, but little Freddie is stealing more hearts these days than many of the screen's great lovers.

WHAT IT TAKES TO PRODUCE THE BEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR!

1. Three years of over-one negotiations to obtain film rights to Kipling's novel.
2. Inspired [Direction] by Victor Fleming.
3. 30,000 miles of "location" tape, covering Atlantic waters off the Grand Banks, West Indies, Cuba, Key and Martin.
4. Outright purchase of an entire fishing fleet, with full crews.
5. 3,000 actors, technicians.
6. Interpretive Wagnerian style musical score by Franz Waxman, Viennese composer.
7. Brilliant performance by Freddie Bartholomew, Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore, Melvyn Douglas, others.

THIS IS LIFE

By Robert E. Rogers

The Boy Scouts of America are making up today—and for ten days to come—for their poignant disappointment a year ago when an infantile paralysis scare forced the Scout authorities to cancel their proposed plans for a first National Jamboree. You will remember President Roosevelt's message in which he expressed keen regret and invited them to come again this year and this time really to go through with it.

So, it is that on yesterday evening at 7:30, the national encampment opened 25,000 strong from a part of the United States. New England's contingent is about 500 youths. The most interesting fact about the Jamboree is that each of these boys will have earned the $25 necessary for his expenses. Of course there will be many also from foreign parts. Only the other day one arrived from the Philippines, having flown the whole way.

Spectacular Convocation At Base of Monument

Besides all the routine about ceremonies and activities the evening must see a transacting ceremony, in which the giving of some of the money was kind and spent from the central fire by runners bearing flaming torches to every troop, where some 100 small fires were lighted. Even more spectacular will be the Fourth of July Convocation at the base of the Washington Monument, when the Scouts will be aided by some famous American leaders. President Roosevelt, on the Tenth of August, at the Washington Monument and elsewhere. In the Jamboree program, seating 20,000 there will be saws, pageants, and demonstrations of acrobatics.

Such a gathering as this of 25,000 boys, representing one and a half million Scouts, involves a tremendous amount of organization. The Jamboree grounds will occupy more than 350 acres of ground on both sides of the Potomac River. On this acreage are erected something like 10,000 tents. It is a complete tent city with its own telephone exchange, sewerage system, electric lights, hospital and even a 16 page daily newspaper. It will be called the Jamboree Journal, to be published every day for 11 days, with special features and photographs. The whole thing is to be written and edited by the scouts themselves.

Grub for 1200 Boys Cooked in One Kitchen

The organization of the camp is rather interesting. The encampment is to be organized into twenty great sections. Each section is still further organized into troops of 300 scouts each, under competent and trained leadership from the scouts' home town. Each section of approximately 1200 scouts is equipped with one kitchen which prepares three meals a day. Each troop has its private dining tent. Before each meal the food for each troop is served in special insulated containers and rushed by hungry scouts to their own dining tent.

Estimates of food supplies for big gatherings is always interesting. Nothing is quite so fascinating about a circus, for instance, as the cook and dining tents, and this Jamboree is much larger than a circus. One hundred thousand meals will have to be served every day—more than 250 tons of food-stuffs—and a staff of 300 cooks will be needed to prepare it.

Taking Scout Oath Impressive Spectacle

Most of this interesting material has been furnished me by Frank Hatch, chairman of the regional committee for Region I, Boy Scouts of America, who has the facts about the Jamboree at his finger tips. For ten days we shall be hearing very interesting things, I hope, from Washington, from this first national encampment ever to be held in the United States.

It should be an impressive spectacle to see and hear 25,000 boys in massed formation repeating the famous scout oath.

"On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout Law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally fit and morally straight."

Old Dan Beard and old General Baden-Powell, the grand old men of scouting ought to be proud of this turn-out.

K. C. Honors Tomasello

Assistant United States Attorney Frank W. Tomasello was unanimously elected state warden of the Knights of Columbus at a convention held last night by the state officers and all the district deputies of the Massachusetts state council. Tomasello, past grand knight of the North Quincy Council Knights of Columbus and district deputy of the K. C. of Boston for three years, is the first Italian-American to be elected to the state board of the organization.

MEN HUPLS 'LE' AT DECCELLES

MUTUAL BACKER WITNESS AT PROBE

CONTRADICTS STATE OFFICIAL

Frank Cohen, New York financier, hurled "the lie" to Insurance Commissioner DeCelles at the State House today, stating that the only reason he had backed the Commonwealth Mutual Liability Insurance Company was because DeCelles had encouraged him.

"DeCelles told me," said the chunky, bald New Yorker, "that there was a great opportunity for a new company in Massachusetts because the existing companies were riding roughshod over the insured."

Cohen said the day of his company's formation was December 13, 1935. He said that he never met Cohen until December 13, 1935, the night before he purchased the company into receivership.

"I have had no personal contact with Cohen since that time," Cohen said. "I have not seen him since December 13, 1935, and I have not heard from him since that time."

"There have been a lot of statements made about Frank Cohen. It is unfortunate that they were not made in a place where the persons making them could be held responsible."

HAS HANDLED MILLIONS
"I have had no personal contact with Cohen since that time," Cohen said. "I have not seen him since December 13, 1935, and I have not heard from him since that time."

"I don't think, certain that the company was written in New York. When I called the next day and found that they were in New York, I was written, you could have knocked me over with a feather."

NEVER GOT A CENT
The witness declared that after the Commonwealth was in operation and as long as it was, he had never received "five cents" from it.

"I don't think that any mutual company ever went through what this company did. There was a company in Massachusetts that had better prospects until it was written in New York, and the state asking for a reconsideration."

"There's been a lot of talk about the mysterious Frank Cohen," Cohen said. "The very first day he came here he came as Frank Cohen."

"All that happened to Cohen was that he had a lot of trouble and he lost a lot of money as a result of persons who were responsible to him and whom he trusted."

Cohen said the very beginning of his trouble was when he had been perfectly willing to come to the United States but when he had been asked to come he had received "all kinds of assurances" that "what would occur" if he didn't come.

DeCelles during the interchange, was sitting in a front row chair, about five feet from Cohen. He was pulling at a briar pipe, but listening very intently. He has asked the commission to allow him to cross-examine Cohen, whom he termed "the red dog of the insurance world."

Cohen said that the commission could close the hearing there and then as far as he was concerned. "You're not doing me any favor in having me here," he said. "As a matter of fact, I am doing the commission a favor by coming here. I have a lot of business to take care of."

Cohen said that he had been involved in formation of the Commonwealth Mutual Liability Insurance Company in New York and had told him they were going to put a list of lawyers on the road if they could get insurance coverage.

Meanwhile in October of 1935, they came to me and said that they felt sure they could get a charter for a new company and they asked me to arrange for the necessary capital," he continued.

TALKS OF N. Y. MEETING
"I don't think I ever met Cohen until December 13, 1935, the night before he purchased the company into receivership," Cohen said.

"I met him later in the afternoon and spent the evening with him," Cohen said. "The party was Mrs. DeCelles, the commis-

5-Year-Old 'Grads' $50,000 BALL Wear Caps, Gowns FOR JENNINGS At Exercises Last to Get June Bridal Permit

Harvard, Yale, Wellesley and Smith have with them on the Cherry Street School of Maplowd when it comes to graduation exercises. When the 50th anniversary of the final exercises of the year are Friday evening, to get their certificates for having completed a year of work, they were dressed in caps and gowns, just like real graduates.

Of course the caps were made of cardboard and the gowns of paper. The exercises were made an impressive spectacle as the school for Maplowd when it comes to graduation exercises.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Marjorie McBride

Let's allow an expert in fireworks to have his say on the subject. It's really a very pertinent say, with July 4 just around the corner. The expert is George L. Buswell, of the Buswell-Blainey firm, and he has been dealing in fireworks for 35 years.

After all those years he still thinks they are fun, properly managed. He says there aren't any fireworks on the market today that are dangerous to themselves. Read the directions and follow them. Never allow children too young to appreciate danger to get them off.

It shouldn't be more dangerous to set off a pyrotechnic display than to light a match. If you have youngsters, and intend to put on a fireworks show for them on the Fourth, select a spot from which you can fire them off without having them land on other people. If John Jr. and Julia Jr. are second are too little to trip, let them enjoy the spectacle from the piazza steps.

Men and Boys Best Customers for Fireworks

Don't go back to your own home and set off a pyrotechnic display. It's really a very pertinent say, with July 4 just around the corner. The expert is George L. Buswell, of the Buswell-Blainey firm, and he has been dealing in fireworks for 35 years.

Boys and men are, by most of the fireworks, he says. Rarely is a mother asked to ask for a bunch of giant torpedoes, although they are most of the ordinary family supplies. The average sale for a family display is for the Fourth of July or June 17 from $3 to $5. Buswell says 95 per cent of all fireworks used in America now are manufactured here. One of the largest factories is in West Hanover.

Boys are the ones to make "noise" fireworks, while adults lean toward rockets, sparklers, candles and colored mines. There have not been any toy balloons of the pyrotechnic variety on the market since 1914. They are too dangerous. To date, this has been a banner year in fireworks sales, as good as the best year in pre-depression times.

'Timmy' Proves Friend To North Shore Lovelorn

It all sounds very involved, but it's simple when you put your mind to it. Seems a lot of young men and girls of the North Shore have taken up "Timmy" of station WMEX in a very large way. Timmy is the unseen executive you get when you call the station early in the morning during the "by request" program.

If a boy's girl turned him down the night before, he calls "Timmy" and asks him to play the record, "Say It Isn't So," and dedicate it to "Gwendolyn." If they just had a fight, he says, "Play I'm Sorry I Made You Cry" for Gwendolyn. If he thinks she had another date, he calls for "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" All the girls have radios, at home and in their runabouts, and since the gag got popular, you may be sure they all listen in.

One hopes "Timmy" bears at least some resemblance to Cupid:

England has no monopoly on families in which a profession is carried down from father to son and grandson. The Very Reverend Percy Edrop, Dean of the Episcopal Cathedral at Springfield, is the seventh of his family in a straight line to be dean of a cathedral.

Debutantes List Own Favorite Wedding Gifts

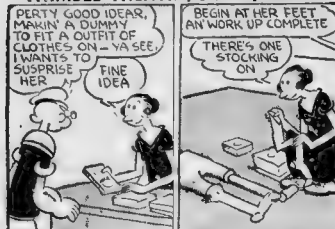

What a young bride thinks about... besides romance... has been pretty well settled by Shreve, Crump and Low. Recently the store sent out a questionnaire designed to find out what brides liked for wedding presents... except flat silver.

Answers from 500 debutantes showed 74 per cent wanted meat platters... others wanted covered vegetable dishes, silver match boxes, ash trays and cocktail shakers. The cocktail shaker percentage wasn't high.

U.S. Begins Fiscal Year

Washington, July 1 (AP)—The government started today a new fiscal year which holds the prospect of the smallest deficit since the budget last year. Roosevelt has estimated about $18,000,000 this year. Fiscal authorities said there has been no change in this forecast.

The Chief Executive expressed hope last January that the 1938 budget could be balanced, except for outlays for paying off debt. This change, varying between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000, is a revision of the 1938 forecast.

Fiscal authorities said that if present spending and revenue trends continue, the nation will have a balanced budget in 1938 and can begin paying down its $26,000,000,000 debt.

For this year, the President has estimated receipts at $22,240,000,000 and expenditures of $22,240,000,000, exclusive of debt retirement.

For the year which ended last month, revenue totaled $22,240,000,000 with the last two days unreported. Expenditures through June 28 totaled $22,240,000,000, exclusive of debt retirement.

The revenue figure exceeded Mr. Roosevelt's revised estimate by $100,000,000, and the expenditure figure exceeded his estimate by $100,000,000 above the forecast.

Spending for several items will this year surpass that during the 1937 period. This will be offset by projected declines in expenditures for "recovery and relief" and the Civilian Conservation Corps.

A total of $1,820,000,000 is budgeted this year for recovery and relief, compared with $2,830,000,000 spent through June 28. The budget for the fiscal year is $1,820,000,000, compared with $2,830,000,000 spent through June 28.
